Americans Abroad

The disappointment that so many around the world feel toward America right now is only a testament to the high expectations they hold for us. We must meet those expectations again, not because being respected is an end in itself, but because the security of America and the wider world demands it.

This will require a new spirit – not of bluster and bombast, but of quiet confidence and sober intelligence, a spirit of care and renewed competence. It will also require a new leader. And as a candidate for President of the United States, I am asking you to entrust me with that responsibility.

European & Mediterranean Americans for Obama

European and Mediterranean Americans (sometimes known as Ethnic Americans) are Americans of varied backgrounds – from the newly naturalized citizen building a family and laying down roots to the fourth-generation family in the US with ties and heritage connected to the land of our ancestors. New Polish-American citizens in Toledo, Irish-Americans in Scranton, Italian-Americans in greater Detroit – these are just some of the stories of American families, stories of resounding hope and affirmation in the American dream – and it is Barack Obama's story as well.

First Americans

First Americans for Obama is a community of people dedicated to bringing positive change to American politics and breaking the cycle of partisan ideology. Perhaps more so than any populations, American Indians are painfully aware of the need for change. Tribes have experienced firsthand the lack of progress under prior administrations. Please use this website to learn about Obama's policy initiatives supporting tribal peoples, to spread the word, and to involve your family, friends, and community. Together, we can bring in a new generation of politics – one based on respect, honor, and unity.

"This time - in this election - it's time for fundamental change in Washington. To make that change, we need to draw on a spirit that is deeply embedded in the Jewish tradition - a view that says we all have a responsibility to do our part to repair this world; that we can take care of one another and build strong communities grounded in faith and family; that repairing the world is a task that each of us takes up every day. That is how we are going to meet the challenges we face."

Labor

We're ready to take the offense for organized labor. It's time we have a President who didn't choke saying the word 'union.' We need to strengthen our unions by letting them do what they do best --- organize our workers. If a majority of workers want a union, they should get a union. It's that simple. We need to stand up to the business lobby that's been getting their friends in Congress and in the White House to block card check. That's why I was one of the leaders fighting to pass the Employee Free

Choice Act. That's why I'm fighting for it in the Senate. And that's why we'll make it the law of the land when I'm President.

While we have come a long way since the Stonewall riots in 1969, we still have a lot of work to do. Too often, the issue of LGBT rights is exploited by those seeking to divide us. But at its core, this issue is about who we are as Americans. It's about whether this nation is going to live up to its founding promise of equality by treating all its citizens with dignity and respect.

Republicans

Republicans for Obama is dedicated to the ideal that while we may call ourselves Democrats and Republicans, we are Americans first. We support Barack Obama because we are serious about getting our government's long-term finances in order, putting our economy back on track, ending the war in Iraq responsibly, and keeping America safe. We support Barack Obama because he is bringing all of us together to reject the Karl Rove school of wedge politics and fundamentally change the way Washington works.

Rural Americans

Now, more than ever, our nation needs a strong leader on the issues that affect our rural communities. Agriculture and rural communities stand at a crossroads. The increased demand for renewable energy and increased interest in greening our economy holds tremendous promise for job creation and new opportunities for rural communities and the agriculture sector. At the same time, rural families face challenges created by irresponsible political decisions made in recent years: ignoring the need to upgrade critical infrastructure, failing to tackle rising health care costs, and losing the battle to enact comprehensive immigration reform.
